

Dave Sacco

Dave Sacco, M.Sc., is a Senior surficial exploration specialist at Palmer. Dave studied Quaternary geology and its application to mineral exploration in graduate school, and over the last decade he has completed numerous surficial exploration programs throughout Canada in association with private industry, academia, and government. Dave provides surficial exploration strategies tailored to specific surficial environments and is interested in developing and refining methods to improve the reliability of mineral exploration targets derived from surficial exploration data.

Thank you to our 2021 Technical Talk Lunch Series Sponsor

