Landslides into Lakes and River Valleys in BC - An Unappreciated Hazard

Two recent events highlight the unappreciated risk posed by landslides into water bodies in BC: the Eliot Lake landslide and outburst flood in November 2020 and the Chilcotin River landslide/outburst flood in July 2024. In this presentation, I review these and other similar events and discuss the dangers that they pose to communities located along rivers and some lakeshores in British Columbia. Although landslides cannot be easily predicted, BC emergency managers should have plans in place for what will inevitably be future 'black swan' events of this type.
