

John Percival

John Percival spent his career at the Geological Survey of Canada studying parts of the Canadian Shield. His maps and reports on remote parts of northern Quebec, Ontario, Manitoba and Nunavut have stimulated exploration in frontier regions. Now retired, John serves on several advisory bodies, enjoys family and making music, and appreciates a fine dram from time to time.

